HOPE TO BLOCK
RATE INCREASE*APPEAR BEFORE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OBJECTING TELEPHONE IMPROVEMENT*IMPROVEMENT NOT NEEDED*Fear That Improvement Cost Will Be Added To Valuation For Rate Making

Fearing that the $80,000 improvement which is being made to the Greencastle Telephone Company system, would eventually be added to the valuation of the local plant for rate making purposes, a delegation of Greencastle men appeared before the public service commission in Indianapolis Friday, objecting to the improvement on grounds it was not needed and was not wanted.

Secrecy surrounded the appearance of the delegation before the commission until their visit was revealed to The Banner by a United Press dispatch.

Mayor W. L. Denman informed a Banner reporter Saturday that the delegation had hoped to keep the visit secret to avoid friction with telephone officials. Mayor Denman talked freely on the subject Saturday, however, saying that he had arranged the visit in an effort to forestall a feared rate increase in the future.

Indiana utilities are allowed a 7 per cent income based on the valuation of the utility. He said if the present improvement cost was added to the valuation it was easy to see that a rate increase was inevitable.

The local delegation had hoped, it was said, that the public service commission could forbid the local improvement, in the same manner in which it fixed the rates. The commission informed the delegation, however, that it had no authority to forbid utility improvements, but could disallow unnecessary expenditures in making rate valuations of the companies seeking increases.

The local delegation informed the commission, it was said, that the present plant was adequate for Greencastle's needs, if the company would put back into service a trouble man and additional girl operators at the exchange. They charged these employees had been removed when the Wisconsin concern bought the local plant some time ago.

Although they lodged their protest with the commission, it was said by members of the delegation Saturday, there was little hope that it would forestall future rate increases.

The local delegation consisted of Mayor W. L. Denman, city attorney Glenn H. Lyon, councilmen C. B. Havens and John Cherry, Russell Brown of the First National Bank, Frank Cannon, and Prof. H. B. Longden.

Policeman Dies Of Bullet Wound*ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF OWN GUN IS FATAL TO OFFICER

LEBANON, Ind., Oct. 25 (UP)—Ed Ball, 45, Indianapolis motor policeman, died today from a chest wound suffered yesterday when his own revolver discharged as he was putting air into an auto tire. The gun fell from his holster.

Ball was en route to Frankfort from Lebanon, with his wife and his brother Arch, also a local policeman, and had stopped at a filling station. In Frankfort, they were to instruct police in the use of sub-machine guns.

Both brothers were experts in the use of firearms and had taken part in several national guard and army rifle matches.

Ed Ball was appointed to the police force in February 1918. He had served as a lieutenant and a captain, and for several years was a member of the motor police squad.

40-MILE SPEED RULE IS SET FOR BUSES

A forty-mile-an-hour speed limit for motor buses operating in Indiana was established in new regulations issued yesterday by the public service commission.

Speed over state roads in excess of forty miles an hour "shall be regarded by the commission as prima facie evidence of a speed greater than is reasonable and proper," the regulations, issued in pamphlet form, stated. Twenty miles an hour is closely built-up business districts, or thirty miles an hour in residence districts. Sixty was fixed as the maximum speed.

Mrs. Crawley left an estate valued at $2,050.

The will was executed November 30, 1928, and was witnessed by Theodore M. Crawley and his wife.

STATE ROAD 43
MAY BE PAVED
NEXT SUMMER*ONLY THING IN WAY OF IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT IS LACK OF RIGHT-OF-WAY*COMMITTEE IN INDIANAPOLIS*Local Men Call On Engineer Of
State Highway Department
On Friday

Paving of State Road 43 between Greencastle and Crawfordsville, is virtually assured, according to a local delegation which visited Mr. Titus of the State Highway Commission engineering department, in Indianapolis, Friday.

Mr. Titus informed the local delegation that if engineers for the highway commission secured the needed right-of-way for proposed cut-offs, without difficulty, the road undoubtedly would be paved next year. The pavement would be 20 feet in width instead of the usual 18 feet.

Only a few of the proposed cut-offs are in Putnam county, it is said, the major ones being at Big Walnut creek and at Hanna Crossing. It is said the commission proposes to take the bend out of the road at the Water Works bridge and run the road straight north through the Tucker farm. At Hanna Crossing the proposed cut-off would take State Road 43 east of the present intersection with State Road 36, giving the road a straight line from a point south of the crossing to a point several hundred yards north of it.

Another important cut-off would eliminate curves in the State Road at Raccoon and Parkersburg.

The local delegation included Mayor W. L. Denman, city attorney Glen Lyon, City Councilmen C. B. Havens, and John Cherry, Frank Cannon, Russell Brown, and Prof. H. B. Longden.

Most of the office seekers were "dressed up" for the occasion. Mrs. Bernice Allen Jones, league president, presided. She introduced Mrs. John Allee, chairman of the program committee. Dr. T. A. Sigler, Democratic county chairman, introduced the Democratic candidates and A. R. Chenoweth, Republican chairman, introduced the Republican candidates. The League is to be congratulated upon this meeting, which has done a great deal toward creating friendliness in politics.

CAPONE NOW
UNDISPUTED
GANG CHIEF*AIELLO SLAIN AND MORAN'S
POWER BROKEN IN CHICAGO UNDERWORLD

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (UP)—A fugitive himself, never daring to leave his secret strongholds unless under heavy gangster guard, Scarface Al Capone was recognized by police today as absolute ruler of the Chicago underworld.

With Joe Aiello and Jack Zuta both slain and their once powerful gangster ally, George "Bugs" Moran, dodging from hiding place to hiding place in fear of his life, officials believed Capone was nearing realization of his Napoleonic dream to extend his power throughout the city, perhaps the nation.

Back through the years of underworld strife, the officers traced the rise of Capone, whose rule once was confined to the South Side and Cicero. They recalled the names of the North Side gangsters who had opposed him and noted that, one after another, but not always one at a time, they had been shot to death.

Of all the North Side leaders who had dared oppose Capone since Dion O'Banion was killed back in 1924, only Moran remained and police predicted it would not be long until he too would be trapped and the last menace to Capone rule removed. Moran's power was broken when seven of his gangsters were killed in the St. Valentine's Day massacre and police say he has never recovered since.

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 25 (UP)—The royal families of Italy and Bulgaria were united today when Princess Giovanna of Savoy became the bride of King Boris III, of the House of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

The wedding ceremony occurred before the main altar of the upper Basilica of St. Francis. The service was performed by Father Antonio Rizzo in the presence of members of the royal families. The ceremony began at 11 a. m.

A heavy thunderstorm broke just after the members of the two royal families entered the Basilica. A heavy rain was accompanied by hail. A dozen automobiles at the end of the wedding procession were caught in the storm, but the royal couple and the wedding party entered the church safely.

Franciscan simplicity was observed within the church at the wish of the princess, a devoted disciple of St. Francis of Assisi, but a display of regal grandeur was witnessed in the town when the royal wedding party traversed a two mile route from the railway station to the church, guarded by troops and preceded by Communal valets in ancient costume.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED

Lois Brown Dorsett of Greencastle was granted a divorce from Clyde H. Dorsett, said to reside in Hendricks county, in the Putnam Circuit court Saturday on grounds of non-support and cruel and inhuman treatment.

Custody of a minor child also was given the former and the husband was ordered to pay the clerk of the local court $5 a week for his support.

Pumping Plant
On County Line*STATION TO BE LOCATED IN OWEN COUNTY JUST ACROSS LINE

A small village will soon be under construction in northern Owen county, where a 40-acre tract of land has been cleared east of the Zion's Reformed church, south of Poland. The land is to be occupied by the pumping station of the Gulf Pipeline Company, of Pennsylvania, and construction is to start soon.

Several tanks, the pumping equipment and four or five homes will constitute the village. The homes will be occupied by the attendants. The pipeline of the company will pass through the northwest corner of Owen county into Cloverdale township, Putnam county, and will mean quite a bit to Jackson township in the way of taxes.

It had been generally thought that the station would be located in Putnam county but as the location in Owen county fits in at the proper place for a list of the oil in the 10-inch main now being laid across the state, it was located in Owen. It will be placed at one of the highest points of the line through Indiana, it was said.—Spencer World.

BERLIN, Oct. 25, (UP)—The German Minister at Rio de Janeiro, reported to the Foreign office today that 20 were killed and 35 wounded when the German steamer Baden was fired on by the guns of Copacabana Fortress while leaving the Rio de Janeiro harbor.

The Brazilian Minister of the Navy officially apologized to the German legation at Rio de Janeiro for the bombardment of the Baden, the foreign office was informed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 25 (UP)—Striving to restore order and halt further bloodshed, a group of army and Navy commanders formed a cabinet today to rule Brazil until the various revolting factions could agree on a more permanent regime.

The men who overthrew the capital yesterday in South America's fourth revolution of the year faced a situation fraught on every side with danger to the peace and welfare of the vast Republic.

Rio de Janeiro was quieter today than yesterday, when hysterical mobs ran shouting through the wide avenues and boulevards, wrecking and setting fire to buildings. But the threat of further violence still hung over the uneasy city.

Dr. Washington Luis, the elderly white-haired president who fought to put down the revolt which swept northward from Rio Grande do Sul early this month, was held prisoner by the military leaders. Steadfastly resisting his enemies to the last, he refused to sign the resignation paper which the rebel leaders handed him.

President-elect Julio Prestes, whose victory in the last political campaign was one of the chief causes of the Brazilian revolution, was reported today to have fled Sao Paulo to an unknown destination.

Confusion remained so great within the city that it was impossible to learn how many had been killed and injured in the rioting that attended the overthrow of the administration. At least 58 persons were known to be suffering from injuries and several deaths were recorded.

Resorting to emergency measures to restore calm, the military Junta in control of the capital put a censorship on news and called upon the nation to lay aside its arms and return to peaceful occupations.

The committee appealed to the people especially to cause no further damage to property.

International complications threatened to descend upon the new leaders almost immediately.

The German steamer Baden, while leaving port during the disorders yesterday, was fired on by Fort Copacabana. Eighteen persons aboard the vessel were wounded and several killed. The wounded, most of them Spanish emigrants, were taken off the ship late last night and rushed to the city for hospital treatment.

"Every measure will be taken to remedy this lamentable incident," the Ministry of Justice announced. The authorities said the ship had been fired on because it was leaving the harbor without a permit.

Lesson for October 25

SPIRITUAL WEAPONS IN A WORLD WAR
(World's Temperance Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 23:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Any one who strives for the mastery to temperance in all things, shall be able to obtain a considerable crown, but he is an incurable.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Learning Self-Control.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Law is Our Friend.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Power of Self-Control.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Facing Temptation, Excessive and Permanent.

The lesson topic is not a happy one. The Scripture text shows clearly that the law is our friend. Having been born of the flesh and of the fleshly nature, there is an uncurable tendency in the human nature to sin. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life.

The committee has further designated it "a temperance lesson." It has a real bearing on the world's situation. It shows the only way to escape the infernal liquor business, namely, to lead individuals to a personal knowledge and experience of Jesus Christ.

Having in Galatians 3:12 and 3:13 that the believer is free from the law as a means of justification, Paul makes practical application of this doctrine as follows:

1. Christian Freedom (vs. 23-25).

2. It is not an excuse to the "flesh" (v. 13).

3. Liberty is not license. The religion that when one is free from the law is free from sinfulness and self-reliance. License of the flesh is not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual material sin, but the expression of a self-centered life (vs. 13, 21).

4. By love service to others (vs. 21).

5. Freedom from the law is not a license to the law. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life.

6. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life.

7. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life. The law is our friend because it shows us the way of life.

GRANADA

True Picture of Devil's Island In "Condemned!"

People who see "Condemned!" the Ronald Colman starring picture which Samuel Goldwyn brings to the Granada Theatre today and Sunday, matinee and night, can have no doubt as to the literal truth of the scenes and incidents displayed on the screen. This picture of the life among the convicted sentenced to terms in the famous French penal colony of Devil's Island off the coast of South America has been authenticated in every way known to man during the production.

Ronald Colman's role, that of the dashing, debonair young thief who falls in love with the warden's mistreated wife, is taken from life. This character formed the central figure of Mrs. Blair Niles' book, "Condemned to Devil's Island," from which "Condemned!" was adapted. The original of this character is living now in his cell on Devil's Island, and Mrs. Niles has had letters from him twice since her six months' visit of inspection two years ago, the first ever allowed by the French government to any writer.

Criminologists and sociologists the world over have acknowledged the truthful power of Mrs. Niles' book and she herself admits that Sidney Howard's adaptation of the book to the screen has not varied an inch from the truth. Even the fact that the hero does not finally succeed in escaping follows the actual fact, since in all the history of Devil's Island, only two convicts have ever succeeded in making their way safely through the shark-infested water and fever-haunted swamps which make it the best protected prison in the world.

Ann Harding plays opposite Colman in this Harry Langdon Talking comedy production and "India" Traveltalk will complete the Granada's week-end program.

VONCASTLE

"Top Speed" Stars Joe E. Brown and Bernice Claire Opens To-night Midnight Thru Tuesday

Probably the most hilarious and sidesplitting comedy yet to grace the talking screen can be marked off to First National and its appreciated effort, is "Top Speed," which plays Sunday, Monday and Tuesday Matinee and night at the Voncastle Theatre opening with midnight show tonight. Joe E. Brown, who scored signally in "Hold Everything," has a role of a $35 a week broker's clerk loose on a vacation among millionaires.

The climax is a gripping, realistic picture of an actual record-breaking race which is decided to everyone's satisfaction—except the rival concerns.

Laura Lee has the comedienne's role and New York critics have acclaimed the part star the outstanding funster in filmdom. Frank McHugh is featured in a prominent part and portrays a drunk in his inimitable fashion. Bernice Claire's wonderful soprano is a revelation to all who hear her. Opposite her is the New York stage favorite, Jack Whiting.

The picture represents a really and truly side-splitting film.

To-night Bob Steele in "THE OKLAHOMA CYCLONE" will afford pleasing out-door entertainment for the Voncastle's Saturday Patrons.

RELIZATION OF WINTER

Winter's first cold spell has driven into every American home, as nothing else has, a realization that the current economic strife is everyman's worry.

The International Lions Clubs inaugurated "Business Prosperity Week" with each member pledged to spend $100 for necessities during the week ended today. Other organizations have followed suit in an attempt, economically sound but scented with desperation, in a humane effort to prevent suffering, radicalism, plunder, revolt, suicide and murder.

It has been estimated that the Lions Clubs of the country will spend between one and two million dollars this week.

The community fund drive at Indianapolis has passed well beyond the half-way mark in the drive for $865,000 to be distributed among the needy. Many civic and social organizations joined the Lions in their effort for stabilization.

The civic minded at Connersville sold tags, with the proceeds dedicated to charity, today more generally considered an obligation to aid that extensive group affected so seriously by the depression.

The Connersville News-Examiner, a daily newspaper, has offered to publish without charge, "Help Wanted" advertisements in the classified section. The paper also suggested: "Buy things you need, and you will be able to afford Business Confidence Week."

The Blomington city employment bureau has asked the citizens to give all possible odd jobs for the aid of the unemployed.

With the first cold days, Evansville workers fell to planning a "soup kitchen" where those hardest hit by the depression might receive food. All relief organizations received overwhelming requests for aid.

LaPorte manufacturers met Thursday night to make plans for alleviating the local unemployment crisis. They raised a relief fund and planned for shortening working hours in a courageous attempt to give work to more persons.

Charity workers at LaPorte formed an organization to direct the relief work. A staff was set up to direct charity work, registration of the unemployed and distribution of food and clothing so that none of the endeavors might overlap.

A. Hartung and Brother, a Mt. Vernon dry goods store, announced they will set aside one dollar every day to be added to the charity funds of Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority and the Harrow relief corps in the southern Indiana city.

Thirty men, really hungry ones, found food at the First Baptist church relief bureau, Muncie, during the first two cold days. The Rev. Eddie Thoman announced that the needy might always find food at his mission.

The Muncie city council has under consideration a plan for establishment of a relief station.

Clinton relief organizations asked the town's citizens to "Act Now" in giving clothing for those that are without it.

At Valparaiso, the Men's club of the Presbyterian church set up their own organization for aid.

And in many, many other Indiana cities and towns have inaugurated splendid campaigns to off-set financial depression devastation.

BUSINESS SURVEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25 (UP)—Continued depression in building and a few instances of betterment in industry was noted in a business survey of Indiana for the week ended today.

Building in the state during September reached a total of $1,558,000, compared to $4,900,000 for the same month in 1929 and $2,544,000 for August of this year. During September only three cities of eighteen covered in the survey showed gains over the month last year. They are Logansport, Terre Haute and Vincennes. However, eight had more building during the month than in August, these being Anderson, Elkhart, Ft. Wayne, Hammond, Indianapolis, Logansport, Muncie and Terre Haute.

In the industrial field, improvement was noted in Pike county coal fields. Practically all stripping plants are operating and deep mines are providing work three to five days a week. A $75,000 tippie is being completed for the Ingle Coal Company near Little. The company is endeavoring to reduce the cost of deep mining to a point where it can compete with the stripping method.

Officials of Servel, Inc., Evansville, announced that $1,000,000 will be spent in advertising a new type of electric refrigerator, production of which will be started December 1.

In the Calumet region, the oil refining industry is operating steadily, the general business depression affecting it little. The industry is providing employment for 2,000 persons.

Business conditions in various cities are shown in the following summary:

Kokomo—Expansion of the Reiss Manufacturing Company plant here, recently merged with the Master Electric Company of Dayton, O., is contemplated, according to Bert H. Weichel, newly appointed superintendent. About 75 persons are now employed and it is expected the force will be increased after January 1.

Bedford—Operations will be resumed November 3 in the plant of the Reliance Manufacturing Company, which has been idle three months, Earl V. Tolen, production manager announced.

Bluffton—The plant of the Niemann Furniture Company is operating again after an idleness of a few days with indications that it will provide fairly steady employment until at least January 1. The force is 20 per cent below normal, but it is expected that from 25 to 30 persons will be employed soon.

Alexandria—Two mineral wool plants here at enjoying a steadily increasing volume of business. One day's shipments reached a total of eight carloads.

Huntington—The Purity Creamery Products, Inc., New York, has opened a modern cheese factory here. It is planned to concentrate manufacture here, closing some plants in the eastern section of the country.

Peru—A survey of industries here shows the Ariel Cabinet Company near full production, and with the Redmon basket factory and Wasmuth-Goodrich plant increasing forces. The Cotton Specialties Company plant is operating on a 24-hour a day basis. The Triplex Heating Specialty Co. is a new concern here, the fourth heating equipment manufacturing enterprise in Peru. It is operating on an overtime schedule.

Ft. Wayne—The Wayne hotel is being remodeled at a cost of $25,000. It will be ready for use late in December.

Terre Haute—One of the city's new industries, the American Can Co. is planning to start operations by Jan. 1, in a plant which is under construction. Employment will be given 500 persons.

LaPorte—Branch offices of the Advance-Rumley Company at Battle Creek, Mich., and Indianapolis, will be moved here and consolidated about Nov. 1.

SYNOPSIS

The chorus girls of a successful musical comedy are in their dressing rooms preparing for a party that a millionaire is giving for Jerry, under study to the star. They are all admiring Jerry because she can get so much out of a man without giving anything in return and bemoaning their own fates. Violet, a demure little girl, inexperienced in the profession of gold-digging, is disgusted with the turn of the conversation.

The next morning Eleanor and Topsy drop in on Mabel, Violet, and Jerry, who have an apartment together, to discuss the party. Eleanor has pronounced it a bore, when Topsy intervenes.

"How do you know? You were under the table all evening," Topsy pointed an accusing finger at her and seated herself in a comfortable chair with apparent relief. She sank her head into the pillow and breathed deeply, quite oblivious to the withering glance from Eleanor and something she hissed under her breath about vulgarity.

Fortunately Jerry made her en-dollars a dozen. Thirt: dollars for twelve dozen. You save six dollars that way."

The girls listened, trying to conceal their annoyance, but none of them made any attempt to buy anything.

"Of course you need soap, Eleanor," Jerry put in. "Everybody does. Put her down for a dozen bars, Miss Grey."

Eleanor gasped as Cissie Grey produced a small notebook and hastily wrote down the order.

Topsy giggled, but she was sorry immediately afterwards. Jerry ordered two dozen for her, unheeding her protest that she was not a laundry. Mabel's share was a gross because Jerry thought she had a lot to wash, and what she could not use on herself, she could use on Rover. Violet ordered a dozen for herself of her own accord, and Jerry took a gross.

When the woman had gone, the girls were indignant. They could not, in fact, think of enough insulting epithets to hurl at Jerry for having taken them in. What did she think they were? If she wanted to help out the old woman, why didn't she give her a few hundred

Topsy giggled, but she was sorry immediately afterwards. Jerry ordered two dozen bars of soap for her trance just as Eleanor was getting ready to say something even more biting, although she knew that that too would not be heard.

"How's everybody?" Jerry greeted them.

"Très fatigué—thanks old dear," replied Eleanor, haughty and nonchalant.

"Translated, that means she feels punk," Topsy elucidated.

"I say, Jerry," came the English accent once more, "why'd you leave the party at such a deucedly early hour?"

"To go home and sleep—just an old Japanese custom."

"Can you tie it?" Topsy shook her head disgustedly. "There's Barney, a man worth fifty million or so—nuts about her—offering her fur coats and yachts—and she walks out on his party to come home and get some sleep."

"I told her she ought to have her head examined," said Mabel, who had come in in time to hear the last remark.

"You girls forget that Jerry's understudying the star of our show," Violet interposed.

"Sure," assented Jerry, "and if I'm going to be a Galli-Curci or Mary Garden, I can't be staying up all night."

"Fat chance you've got of ever playing that part, dearie," Topsy offered. "The Collins dame is so healthy, you'd have to take out her liver to make her miss a performance."

A loud ring was heard, and then two more followed before Sadie, the colored maid, reached the door. People were always in a hurry, and Sadie refused to inconvenience herself for anybody.

"Maybe it's Barney bringing you Cartier's Jewelry Store," Topsy suggested to Jerry.

"It's Miss Grey," Sadie announced in a tired voice. "You wanna see her or is you undisposed?"

"Tell her to come right in, Sadie." A shabbily dressed woman of middle age followed Sadie into the room. She was tall, and her figure was still slender, but her face which was obviously once beautiful was thin and lined, and looked ghastly under the thick layer of rouge. Her black eyes shone like two black beads deeply sunk in her head. She stood there uneasily, apologizing to Jerry.

"I'm sorry, Miss Lamar," she said softly, "if I'd known you were busy—"

Jerry got up and shook hands with her cordially.

"Girls, this is Miss Grey. She has the most wonderful toilet soap, and you're going to buy a lot of it."

"It's wonderful soap, ladies—Parker Pink of Perfection. It comes in a small compact cake—beautifully scented—lilac, lavender, and violet. Thirty cents a cake. Three count? They could spend their money on other things more valuable to them than helping somebody who probably did not need the money as much as they did.

"Don't you understand?" Jerry managed to tell them at last. "That's Cissie Grey."

"Well, what of it?" Topsy demanded.

"Thank goodness, she isn't selling battle ships!" said Mabel.

"Don't you remember, girls?" Jerry pleaded. "The girl with the beautiful back—Cissie Grey?"

Topsy reflected. "Is that the dame—about fifteen years ago?"

"The rage of London," Eleanor now recalled.

"And of New York, Paris, Berlin, and every place," Jerry added.

"Now she's selling soap!" Mabel concluded.

"She used to be the toast of the town," Jerry said.

"And now she's only a crumb," sighed Mabel.

The incident gave the girls plenty to think about. They knew she had had everything in her day, and when she lost her looks, and men stopped being interested in her, she was finished. The same thing could happen to any one of them. Perhaps there were some men now who were willing to give them jewels and furs, but in a few years who knew whether they would still retain their figures and their good looks—and their jobs?

"As I look at it," Eleanor decided, "the entire matter is a sporting proposition. Either you work the men, or the men work you. If you know what I mean."

To show her acquiescence to this bit of philosophy, Jerry began to sing the chorus of the "Song of the Gold Diggers":

Dig, dig with your little shovel
Dig up a Daddy Dear—
Dig, dig, just a little love will
Dig up a Daddy here—

Just like those "forty-niners"
We're little miners. We've staked our claims and now
We'll show you how to
Dig, dig, get a lot of thrills
And dig up someone who'll pay
Big, big, big and little bills
That keep piling up each day!

Prospector, collectors, of dough—dee-oh-dough, Just Dig, dig, show your pretty "ggers"

Dig, you little diggers, dig!
Violet, who had said little up to this point, thought it incumbent on her to express her disapproval.

After all, there was her Walley. Didn't they think he was different from the other men? He certainly wasn't "working" her. He had wanted to marry her from the start, and he was just the sweetest—darlingest—

I. H. S. A. A. DOPE

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25 (UP) — Efforts to pour oil on the troubled waters of the Indiana High School Athletic Association have been apparent in all sections of the state.

Reports that representatives of several of the latter schools had met in Indianapolis to organize and draw up a warning and protestation seemed to act as a stimulant for action.

The men from the larger schools agreed to notify the I. H. S. A. A. that they would bolt the spectacular and glorified state high school basketball tournament unless they were given an equal representation on the board of control and legislative committee.

Just today Milo H. Stuart, principal of Arsenal Technical Schools at Indianapolis and the new president of the Indiana State Teachers' Association, was reported to be working on two proposals. It was said he would work actively in an effort to solve the association's troubles.

One of the proposals was described as a plan of classifying the state schools into five divisions, with each class having a representative on the board of control and members of the legislative committee. An alternative plan was said to suggest an A, B, and perhaps C divisions, the distinction being according to enrollments.

Under the latter plan each class would have its individual state championship tournament. Many school men have been reported to favor the five class plan, their arguments being that the small schools have no fear of the larger ones because, despite comparative enrollments, each is entitled to a representation of equality on the basketball floor with a team limited to five men.

Arthur L. Trester, the I. H. S. A. A. commissioner, today said he believed equality of representation would solve all the association's troubles, a few of them being distribution of finances, number of games allowed each school to play in a single and number of sweater awards.

Trester was non-committal on most topics discussed, but he did say that when equal representation was affected, settlement of other problems would be an easy matter.

"If the men from every class of the association can't settle the problems, then nothing can hold together the I. H. S. A. A.," he added.

Each school man talked to granted that all classes of schools would be forced to concede a point here and there to bring final harmony. It was also the belief of those bent on missionary work, that the I. H. S. A. A. was too big and fine an organization to be broken up.

It is known the men from the larger schools will ask for a meeting of the legislative body within the next 30 days, and they appeared to be strong reason why the meeting will be held.

First, the larger schools, most of which entertain sectional and regional basketball tournaments, might refuse to invite such meets under the present turbulent condition of affairs.

The I. H. S. A. A. must have the invitations on file at the earliest possible date to perfect the gigantic organization for staging the annual three-week basketball tournament.

BREAKS SILENCE

Breaking a silence of twelve years since the armistice, General John J. Pershing declares in an interview in The Country Home, that America is practically disarmed and back to the same point of defenselessness as before the World War.

"People says we should disarm," says Gen. Pershing. "America is already almost disarmed. Good men and good women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away.

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. But what have I to do to be so sure there will be no more war? But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one? It is not a question of whether or not we will defend this wonderful country of ours if another nation, which does believe in war, should attack us.

"We are all lovers of peace now. But somehow it is possible to change us in a few months. The same people who one month denounce war will be found the next month clamoring for war. Suddenly we see men and women and little children—not soldiers—but peaceful civilians, clergymen, mothers and kindly old ladies and quiet men shouting for war. When there is war talk in the air almost everybody takes a hand in it but the soldiers."

Gen. Pershing points out the fallacy of the argument that a large army is a dead expense. The pioneer work in the West; building of the Panama, Erie and other canals; controlling the floods of the Mississippi; construction of highways and public buildings; development of devices aiding commercial aviation; development of chemicals for treating disease and fighting crop pests are a few of the civil functions that have been performed by the army in times of peace, Pershing declares.

REPUBLICAN TICKET
INCLUDES CAPABLE
EXPERIENCED MEN

Resume of Record of Congressional Ticket

THEY WANT YOUR SUPPORT

The Republican Congressional Ticket offers the unexcelled qualification known as experience.

Only by experience gained through continuous service may a state congressional delegation obtain influence in National House of Representatives an indelible rule of seniority obtains and a Representative's opportunity comes only through length of service. Even then a Congressman's influence is subject to party control of Congress—a member of a minority political party being in worse position than a beginner with the controlling party, which organizes the House.

The present Indiana delegation has attained the rank that places the state in the forefront of leadership in the House. Every Representative who seeks re-election is a member of the half score of committees, such as Appropriations, Agriculture, Banking, Buildings, Interstate Commerce, Judiciary, Labor, Patents and Pension, which frame nine-tenths of the legislation considered by the House.

Three of the principal chairmanships belong to Indiana—Wood on Appropriations; Elliott on Public Buildings; and Vestal on Patents. Vestal also is whip of the House. Purnell will be the next chairman of the Agriculture Committee; he also is a member of the powerful Rules Committee, which controls the order of business in the House. Hickey ranks high on the Judiciary, Hogg on Postoffice, Hall on Pensions; Johnson on Interstate Commerce, the committee that frames railroad and other legislation relating to transportation; Rowbottom on Labor and also Claims; Hall on Pensions and also the District of Columbia; and Dunbar on Banking and also Flood Control.

The voting record of these men commands them every fair-minded person. Those who were members in the War Congresses gave every support to its successful prosecution. They with their colleagues, who entered the Congress later, were prominent in the enactment of the tax reduction laws that cut $600,000,000 from the tax burden and relieved two and a half million persons of all federal taxes. All were supporters of the compensation and pension increase bills, the farm cooperative marketing or other legislation requested by organized agriculture. Other important legislation having their support included the tariff, restricted immigration, flood relief, river improvement, the budget and the nation's first comprehensive building law, passed under the leadership of Mr. Elliott. They have opposed debt cancellation in favor of foreign countries, the World Court, the League of Nations and other entangling alliances.

MR. DAY TAKES EXCEPTIONS

Oran A. Day, Democratic candidate for re-election as commissioner of Putnam county, has taken exceptions to a statement we printed this week in which it was said the state tax board had reduced the road repair fund in this county and the taxing officials had not. Mr. Day also made the statement that it had been the policy of the board to reduce the taxes as the gas tax increased. He cited the record as showing the gravel road tax was reduced 10 cents under his administration, and the tax board reduced it another 10 cents. He said the other reduction by the state tax board was prior to his going on the board.

Mr. Day said the board did not reduce the tax this year for next in the face of an increase of about 20 per cent in the gasoline tax because of three reasons. He says there was a reduction in the assessed valuation of the county; the board was forced to spend between $5,000 and $10,000 this year to settle damage claims against the county because they carried no compensation insurance; and third that the gravel road repair fund was bankrupt with the start of the new year, and they are attempting to have a carry over balance at the end of this year.

In the face of the decrease in the road tax this year, there has been an increase in the county revenue fund, due Mr. Day said, to township poor expenditures, even though the townships repay the county for this expense.

The condition of the gravel road repair fund in the past, which was depleted at many times, was said to have been due to the heavy expenditure of the road superintendent. The total raised in this fund ranged from about $195,000 down to slightly more than $100,000 for the past several years and the rate ranged from 50 cents down to the present rate of 10 cents.

SEED TESTING FREE

Many farmers do not know that they can send seed samples to Purdue for testing free. The analysis of seed can be made to determine impurity, and foreign seeds. Farmers with seed to sell should submit samples during November and December. If farmers would be more careful in buying tested seed, even from their neighbors, there would not be the spread of dodder, Canada thistle, etc. Blanks for seed testing can be obtained at the county agent's office.

Although the State Forest nursery at Henryville contains over 6,000,000 seedlings, only several hundred thousands will be large enough for distribution this spring. So now is a good time to be thinking and getting in your order ahead of time, and there is just a limited number. No stock is supplied for ornamental purposes, lawns or driveways; but for forestry plantings.—Address: F. Wilcox, State Forester, Dept. of Conservation, Division of Forestry, Indianapolis, Indiana.
